Heres an example!

Keith Rowland is the best webmaster to ever have lived!!!

Remeber...This is a a satirical remark. My opinion is that the environment at Rowland net is hostile with the sysops behaving as gulag gaurds in WWII. From speaking with different people I am getting the impression that I am not alone in this opinion.

Much Thanks to the webmaster at this site who has developed a good looking and EASY to use site!!!

Thanks for the offer! Unfortuantely I have quit a few projects underway that take up much of my time!

Can it be better??? Oh, humble webmaster, this site has already won out! First of all it looks alot better than te official site and there is something nice about not having to jump through 25 steps to post a simple message! Then theres that whole thing about posting your honest opinion and not having to wonder if you're giong to get chewed out or deleted.

I'm letting as many know about this place as possible...and if Keith gets his drawers in a bundle and tries to screen out my url...well there are contingency plans for that!

Relax, revisedcode!

Remember what the voice said in FIELD OF DREAMS:

If you build it, they will come!

I just tried to get onto the Coast-to-Coast BBS, and my login no longer works! I did not even bother to re-register. I am here now. Here with you.

If you build it, they will come!

Believe, revisedcode, believe!

I've added a link to this site in the "aftermidnight" forum on egroups. It might be useful to spread the word in any other Art-Bell-related groups out there.

Hi, Swerdloc!

Thanks for registering and Welcome aboard!
Also, thanks for linking the site to where you feel it will be responded to.

We tried to suggest a link from an alt.art bell newsgroup-and they jumped all over us!

Bleeeeeeeeeeee!

Anyhow, so glad you found us. We already have some very neat 'un-official c2c' posters here...

Regards,
Linnea

I completely agree about this sight. It's great to not worry about "Scotty" or his helpers jumping down your throat for stuff.

Any of you noticed how the postings on the "official" site have diminished? Used to be you'd log on after a couple of hours and you'd spend at least half an hour catching up on the new posts.

Now, however, there's not more than two or three PER DAY! I think there's a lot more people out there a little disgruntled and afraid to post there.

And yes - "IF YOU BUILD IT, THEY WILL COME." It just takes a little time for people to be comfortable with a new forum. I'll bet a lot of people are over here looking, but just haven't jumped into the soup yet. Give it time - I think you've got a winner here, and I've e-mailed the sight address to several of my friends and family.

Ya dun good, Webmaster!

it won't take long...for all the riders...every single one...to be here.
I do not count myself as a rider...not in the true veteran sense...I know...it is not a number but a state of mind... 😊 Once all the riders are here...you will see 0 (zero) posts over 'there'. To be complete all we need is Mike to defect. Of course he cannot...not yet! Maybe to feel as a true rider I need to get banned over there as i don't like it there anyway.....I mean...so soon...has that website ever heard of Art Bell????? you would never know it...and even if it is true that Art himself requested references to himself removed... (hmmmm interesting on his part 😊) it would seem respectful to at least ignore Art's request in some small way as a token sign of thanks on the 'official' site of which Art is reponsible for...but NOOOOOOOOO!...so maybe one more post from me there...in the funny bone...so that like Art...I too am gone!
"it isn't easy being  , and it isn't going to get any easier because something is happening but you don't know what it is, do you, Mr.
G**?"

ps. A pleasure to meet you the mighty Quinn!
thanks for your work Amandacat and your emails!
and my appreciation to you, RevisedCode, for an outstanding job well done! and so quickly...it will only get better!
doing my part to spread the news of the only website that has the 'spirit of
IT' heh heh as Art said...'whatever it is that this is that WE have created' heh heh
be well, art!

Hello Richard,

So good to see you here. You should hang on to the other BBS as long as you can, to attract others...You can also list this website under "Preferences" as a "favorite url".

If you get bumped for that, it will be another notch against Mr. G.
Someday, all the past events will be catching up with him.

Meantime, you are truly an asset to this place. Geeee, it's REALLY beginning to feel like home!

Has anyone been over to the "other" website today? I don't think there's been any new posts on the bbs there.

Perhaps Keith/Carl's confession about his attack on this website has made people a little cautious about posting there.

As the old saying goes, power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely. The power as the almighty Premier web guru has gone to his head. Too bad - Keith is a good webmaster, but there's always someone out there that's a little better. Fame is fleeting, Keith, and when the high has ended, you'll be left with your past and yourself, and it will be very lonely.

In the long run, I think Keith has metaphorically slit his own throat this time, and his little private empire may just come crumbling down around him, as all the serfs rise up against the tyrannical king!

Things are really starting move fast, revisedcode, aren't they? But then things DO have the habit of doing that in cyberspace... You wanted to take a ride, revisedcode, so fasten your seatbelt because it's gonna be a bumpy (but thrilling) one!

I am reminded of that great scene in SPARTACUS where the gladiators overcome their whip-wielding trainers, break out of their cages at the gladiator school, and escape to the hills, sword in hand. I bet that the old fogies in the Senate are debating the dispatch of the Imperial Legions as we speak to restore law-n-order among "the lower classes." And if they could get away with it, there would be a cross along the Appian Way for each one of us as a warning for evil-doers. Liberty or death, folks! And boy, do I dig that pirate flag flapping in the breeze on the menu page!

Joe Quinn

Good morning! Am kinda new at this and am having trouble sending a message, but will try again.

Found out about this site from someone who got "banned" from the other place. This looks like more fun. See a lot of familiar names.

Thanks for the update on Art from PVTimes.

Cheers.

Hi Hilda welcome. I see you got it right...we all have to get used to the UBB.....This software is the best in the business. Kinda like the old BBS days back in the early 90's when the Internet was just getting popular.

Make sure you read the FAQ the link is posted on the top left of every page.

yes, you are right everaftergirl...no use getting bumped intentionally as access there will still prove useful for the time being...of course i DO NOT allow myself to limit my comments or the nature of them (being respectful of others the only caveat) so in speaking naturally it will probably happen anyway. As of this morning there are no new posts there. But I will post there now to advertise an alternate sight for C2C, Mike Siegel, AND Art Bell fans to enjoy. Surely any self-confident webmaster more in love with the content rather than the personal fame would not object to other sites that COULD be mutually supportive.

I have all the Nashville news items you sent me saved so if you need one of them that might have become lost to you...I may have it.

I too, wish to add my welcome to Hilda...someday we will look back at these early days with warm memories of the startup. and how even in a fledgling walk this site endured the attack to disintegrate...for an attacker knows that he has to strike quick or it is too late...it is too late now!!

morning all...tried your suggestion of listing favorite urls in preferences on post to post...they were not allowed to go through...then i composed a post to mike siegel under 'guests and hosts' and slipped in the 'hidden' url...the post was intercepted for review and has not appeared. the post was a note of support for mikes efforts and to tell him he has support from many corners etc..

I included two disappointments...1. the cutback to 4 hours...(fundamental structural change to the show we were told would remain the same)and 2. the elimination of the 7-10 rebroadcast (essential for working people on day shift)

Apparently bridge building between C2C sites is not to be allowed nor is any reference to subjugating moves by Premiere. Yes, Joe, the rustling ghost of Art Bell is a thorn in the desert to Premier no doubt...may they be impaled on it ...the sooner the better!

Can someone tell me how to retrieve the email address of the posters on Keith's BBS? I'm what one would call computer stupid.

Got a little extra time and know of a great URL that needs to be sent to them all individually. (smiles)

Also, do these pages on each subject flip over to a new page after so many posts?

Welcome Jeri! Glad to have you onboard over here. Recognize you as a long-time poster on the "other" site. You're gonna love it over here! Always loved reading what you had to say.

This board is kinda like the "good ole days" before Art left, when we could more or less post our REAL feelings and opinions without the censorship and personal biases of the now-famous web guru. I would remind the new web guru of Art's words about fame, however; and to be careful - it's not all it's cracked up to be.

Man, I'm loving this place more and more every day. And I see the registered member number keeps climbing. That's terrific!

Hi JANA!

That's a superb idea - one that was already underway in fact.

Simply view all posts that you have time to and in doing so CLICK the names of the people posting. It will give you their profile, within which you'll see their email.

Please contribute this information to me as I said - That's already underway and I'd appreciate assistance!

Thanks!

Carol,

Keith has been discouraging posting there for awhile. Everyone is afraid to post, for fear of being "off topic" and banned.

I'm just guessing, but I wouldn't be suprised if some of the people still posting there.. kinda belong there....

In the past, many backed Keith, no matter what. I know I've seen disruptive posters who needed to be reined in. And I always assumed when he was talking about banning people, or removing posts, he was talking about people like THEM and "those" kind of posts. I've monitored boards, I know what it is like.

But this time, I think enough people have caught on to Keith. Infact, up until Mr. Green came along, I was still defending him.

It's time he went his way, and we go ours. If he chooses to remember that it was US who supported his web site all these years, then so be it. Gee, I've even BRAGGED about how good a webmaster he was! And sent many, many people to his web site, that didn't even know who Art Bell was. Even one well known political mag checked out and choose WEB X bbs because I sent them to Keith's web site.

He thinks we are mean? Wait until he meets the Rush and Dr. Laura listeners... LOL! I'm sure they will be a pleasure to work with.

I wish him well. And Like I said, it is time he went his way, and we go ours.

Melissa, you are right - Keith should go his way, and we ours. In fact, earlier today, I changed this web site to the one that automatically opens when I launch explorer. I'd rather see this site get the hits than the other one. And, besides, I feel like this is my new virtual-home. I seem to have more in common with all you folks than the ones still over there.

I'm SO excited to see the registered member number increase every time I log in! Shows what a little common courtesy and TRUST in others will do.

I'm sure that Keith, to some degree, is just following "suits" orders. However, for him to come over here and dog everybody, I think, was purely of his own doing. As I posted before, this time, though, his little trick may be his un-doing. He can enjoy his little joy-ride to the top for now, but when he falls, it's a lot farther to the bottom!

Destiny has a way of always working out for the best, in the long run, and I fully believe that what goes around eventually comes back around. If you plant weeds in your garden, you'll get a whole crop of weeds. But, if you plant flowers, you'll have a beautiful garden.
