I was only a member of Artbell for a couple of weeks before it closed down! I hope that isn't a sign to say I shall give this site the "Kiss of Death" also! Any more old Artbell people out there?? IP: Logged

I am Frank Price from the P2P board although I was an infrequent poster there for the last few months, I was one of the "Riders" from the old AB BBS and one of the first 100 here. We are glad to have you on the FF. Take a look around and settle in. Frank IP: Logged

I think it's pretty crappy the way Keith just pulled the plug. shouldn't surprise us tho... He did the same thing when Art "retired". There was a shload of old posts that went away over night. Literally months of threads and messages. Whatta ween. IP: Logged

We all registered here under assumed names originally, for fear of getting bumped, which most did. 😊 Anyway, you are among family, even if you don't recognize the handles. IP: Logged

I, too, was over at Art Bell's BBS, and was disappointed to see it pulled without notice. Quite a few former Art Bell posters are also found at www.anomalies.net. Both of these forums are very good, and I am glad I found them! IP: Logged
