The cashier says you must have proof you own a cat. Seniors are buying this for food and mgt, does not approve of this. So an hour goes by and here she comes with the cat. the clerk gives her her food and out she goes. Well the next day the senior comes up with dog food. The same thing transpires as above. Well the next day the senior comes in and asks the clerk to put her finger in the bag. The clerk how do I know you don't have a snake in there? The senior says I would never do that to you. So the clerk sticks her finger in the bag and smells it and says "smells like poop to me." The senior says may I buy some toilet paper. old 63 ----- davidguyer IP: Logged

For some strange reason, this really pushed my humour button -- crying laughter:

John lived in the city all of his life and he decided when he retired to buy a place in the country. He bought a few acres next to an 85 year old farmer. John planted a garden, but the old neighbor would always come over and tell him he wasn't doing things right. While John appreciated the advice, his old neighbor was getting on his nerves.

That winter, John bought a book on how to make homemade maple syrup. He studied it so much he had the book memorized and he sent away and bought all the supplies. In February, he started tapping all the trees and knew, without a doubt, he was doing it perfectly.

He looked up and there was the old farmer. John said, "You can't say I'm not doing this right." The old farmer said, "No, the taps are perfect. I just never did see anyone make Oak syrup before."

CLEVER DOGGY

A wealthy man decided to go on a safari in Africa. He took his faithful pet dog along for company. One day the dog starts chasing butterflies and before long he discovers that he is lost. So, wandering about he notices a leopard heading rapidly in his direction with the obvious intention of having lunch.

The dog thinks, "Boyo, I'm in deep doo doo now." (He was an Irish setter)... Then he noticed some bones on the ground close by, and immediately settles down to chew on the bones with his back to the approaching cat.

Just as the leopard is about to leap, the dog exclaims loudly, "Man, that was one delicious leopard. I wonder if there are any more around here?"

Hearing this the leopard halts his attack in mid stride, as a look of terror comes over him, and slinks away into the trees. "Whew", says the leopard. "That was close. That dog nearly had me."

Meanwhile, a monkey who had been watching the whole scene from a nearby tree, figures he can put this knowledge to good use and trade it for protection from the leopard. So, off he goes. But the dog saw him heading after the leopard with great speed, and figured that something must be up. The monkey soon catches up with the leopard, spills the beans and strikes a deal for himself with the leopard. The leopard is furious at being made a fool of and says, "Here monkey, hop on my back and see what's going to happen to that conniving canine."

Now the dog sees the leopard coming with the monkey on his back, and thinks, "What am I going to do now?" But instead of running, the dog sits down with his back to his attackers

	pretending he hasn't seen them yet. And just when they get close enough to hear, the dog says, "Where's that monkey. I just can never trust him. I sent him off half an hour ago to bring me another leopard, and he's still not back!!" IP: Logged
