

Fantastic Forum

- FAN-TASTIC FORUM
- Politics and Government
- Arsenic and 'old water'...

[POST NEW
TOPIC](#)

POST REPLY

profile | register | preferences | faq | search

UBBFriend: Email This Page to Someone!

next newest topic | next oldest topic

Author	Topic: Arsenic and 'old water'...
Cherry Kelly Swashbuckler Posts: 3452 From: Belton, MO USA Registered: Jul 2000	 posted 06 August 2001 09:42 AM profile mail edit   quote <hr/> Ok its a pun on the play, but this is a SERIOUS subject matter. In the last days of tenure - Clinton passed an EO regarding the change of 'arsenic' levels in water from 50 parts per billion to 10 parts per billion. Of course there was NO research connected to this EO, no studies to show that it was even a problem - yet our congress people have voted to uphold this EO -- WITHOUT ANY RESEARCH. GW tried to get congress to set this aside long enough to have a study done - but when the word ARSENIC is involved it evokes POISON... in the mindset of people. When was the last time you heard of someone dying from arsenic levels in the drinking water? I've looked for information and found nothing. What will be the cost to taxpayers to have their water changed to meet this new standard? Where are the studies on the costs involved? Where are the medical studies to show that the human body MUST have this 50 down to 10 per billion parts 'reduction'? Won't such a drastic change cause medical problems?? Let alone what it will do to the pocketbook of ALL taxpayers. How will they 'remove' the 40 parts per billion in the water? This is going to affect every one of you - every man, woman and child in the USA. Yet it seems that its being pushed through congress to keep this monstrous EO - and without any research to back up the need. IP: Logged

Squareball unregistered	 posted 06 August 2001 09:56 AM edit quote <hr/> Wait Cherry, are you trying to tell me that Bush who is in the pocket of the "chemical" industry isn't having Arsenic produced and PUT into our drinking water? What about that commercial where it has a little kid saying "More arsenic in my drinking water please"... ??? I'm confused now! I was under the assumption that they were producing Arsenic and putting it IN the drinking water... my god.. my fragil mind is confused now!!!! oh my! IP: Logged
Ninerism Swashbuckler Posts: 1632 From: Los Angeles, CA., U.S. Registered: Oct 2000	 posted 06 August 2001 03:46 PM profile edit quote <hr/> Sauareball: No, it's really not a case of your fragile mind -- oh, pardon my blooper, but your mind is hardly fragile, as a fragile mind should not be wasted -- it is more a case of dumping poisonous crapola of all sorts into drinking waters all over the nation, and mostly the major poison is FLOURIDATION POISON! It makes people weak-willed, me thinks. So, drink up, mateys, let that poison flow into our iron veins. S'more flouridated poison please! Ninerism IP: Logged
Squareball unregistered	 posted 06 August 2001 05:23 PM edit quote <hr/> Oh you have NO idea how against that I am Niner! Why is the gov't doing this? oh to give us strong teeth!? Give me a freakin' break! Who are they to do my dental work! IP: Logged
daboodaddy Buccaneer Posts: 703 From: The Sovereign Nation of No Places Registered: Dec 2000	 posted 06 August 2001 05:44 PM profile edit quote <hr/> What is such a shame, is that affordable H2O purifiers are ineffective in eliminating floride. Floride is a by-product of the aluminum industry. I feel the choice to add floride to all drinking water was an economically based decision. Big Bucks for a poisonous by-product touted as beneficial for our teeth. Yes, it helps strengthen tooth enamel, but this can be PAINTED on at the Dentist's office and with toothpaste. It does not need to be consumed regularly except for one reason. It causes a population to become lethargic and stupid, as in "sheeple". Go to alternative health websites or do a search for adverse effects of floridated water on mental function. Nazis used it to keep the concentration camp residents and the citizens "docile". BTW: As of now, most bottled water does not contain floride. There now is activity to ENCOURAGE bottlers of bottled water to add floride to their product. Seems the American Dental Association (possibly incorrect name) is concerned about the rise in consumption of non-floridated bottled water and the detrimental effect it may have on our dental health. (mental health? a little freudian slip, i'm sure.) What if the sheeple learn to think out the box again?

Question EVERYTHING, even your OWN thoughts.
A "Daboodaddyism"

[This message has been edited by daboodaddy (edited 06 August 2001).]

IP: Logged

Paulette
Buccaneer

Posts: 521
From: South Carolina
Registered: May 2001

posted 06 August 2001 07:49 PM

profile

edit

quote

Research I had come across said that fluoride fries brain cells over a period of time! I don't want it! I drink nothing but distilled water at all times....but then who can "prove" that the trash isn't added to that, too? Have it analyzed. The same research said that it has never been proven to help the teeth in any manner. And if anyone wants to consume arsenic, they may do so in some of...well...a certain vitamin store that you find inside of many malls....products! A doctor had sent some of their caps/tablets off to an independent lab and they came back with arsenic added. When there is a certain amount of arsenic in vitamins.....well, vitamins for ultra men and ultra women.....it irritates the adrenals and the person thinks they have more energy! Yeah, right. I wonder how many more of their products contain it, too? Doesn't really matter as long as they profit from it. Money is ALWAYS more important than a human, anyway, right? Sound familiar? Remember that everything that touches the skin is absorbed into the body? Toothpaste? Nahhh....I won't have it. The soft tissues in the mouth.....right straight to the brain. Aluminum by product? You bet!

Could I have some more Alzheimer's, please?

[This message has been edited by Paulette (edited 06 August 2001).]

IP: Logged

Ninerism
Swashbuckler

Posts: 1632
From: Los Angeles, CA., U.S.
Registered: Oct 2000

posted 06 August 2001 08:15 PM

profile

edit

quote

Cherry Kelly, Squareball, Daboodaddy, Paulette, and Readers:
It is great to see that so many of our posters here on FAN-TASTIC FORUM are so well-informed about this important issue!

Now how the heck do we get our Congress-persons and Senators to actually listen to us, so that crapola, 'scuse me, POISON can be eliminated from our drinking water. Oh, and get this, you all probably have seen how the toothpaste actually warns parents not to let little children use it by themselves now! How's that for "caring for the children", eh?! So, probably all of our soda pop and all the other drinks have more of that poison in it, too, so how does one really know when overdose has been reached, and as Paulette informs us, our skin absorbs all of that poison, too!

Daboodaddy, I am going to step out on a big limb here, and you know, this is not the first time I have sought to do so with saw in one hand, but here goes: Seems to me that there may have been more than the "mere" hypnotizing effects of the Major Media's glassine machine, you know the big propaganda tube, which surely brought most Americans to the edge of their chairs as we collectively watched the horrors unfold at Waco's little Mount Carmel which the media dubbed 'the compound', as if it were some sort of para-military staging area, and we were slowly but surely drawn into the drama unfolding before our eyes. Well, sometimes I think that our collective consciousness is so dulled by hypnotic effects of tv, that the horrors barely register, and then sometimes I also believe that something in our drinking water has actually dulled our will-to-live or something, and that as Daboodaddy describes it, the Nazifications are in full gear now with the masses completely lulled into la-la land whereby we hardly even know how to give a damn anymore.

Ok, that is major conspiracy-thinking, I know, but how do we explain the fact that so very few Americans even seemed angry that they witnessed their government, their police, their military, performing gestapo-type tactics upon our own people in broad daylight?

I still cannot believe that there has been no real Congressional investigation into that deliberately arranged para-military assault against American citizens in their own home.

Sawing on the wrong side of the limb again....
Ninerism

IP: Logged

Squareball
unregistered

posted 07 August 2001 05:39 AM

edit quote

DUDE exactly! Niner I read my toothpaste box and I couldn't figure out why it said not to use it on any one under 2! And to "keep out of reach of children"!!!! WTF!!!!

IP: Logged

Cherry Kelly
Swashbuckler

Posts: 3452
From: Belton, MO USA
Registered: Jul 2000

posted 07 August 2001 09:07 AM

profile mail edit

quote

The situation with arsenic in water is that it is a naturally occurring thing. The levels have always been there in very minute form. Where the problem lies is in the areas of mining where arsenic is used to separate gold (I believe was what one article said). So naturally keeping levels down to the 50 parts per billion was a good standard to use as this was what occurred naturally.

The last known deaths to arsenic levels in water was in Bangladesh (sp) some years ago.

The thing is - the reduction under the EO by Clinton from 50 down to 10 parts per billion is utterly absurd. Just because some "abc" group has recommended it - does NOT make it feasible or even necessary. As noted here with the flouride situation - dentists recommended it for dental reasons when in reality it is more harmful than it is good.

GW asked congress to set this EO aside so that studies COULD be done, but congress critters were scared to do so because of the 'poison' label one associates with arsenic. Congress critters don't seem to care that this has been a standard, that there have been no deaths from drinking water with the current level, nor have they even considered the costs involved to implement such a drastic cut.

IP: Logged

All times are PT (US)

next newest topic | next oldest topic

Administrative Options: Close Topic | Archive/Move | Delete Topic

POST NEW TOPIC

Hop to:

POST REPLY

Contact Us | www.fantasticforum.com

Powered by Infopop www.infopop.com © 2000
Ultimate Bulletin Board 5.47d