Hi Grayson!!

I believe in following the father's advice about not engaging in any activities that could "open the door". I've noted heated defense of activities such as TM, Rv, etc., which makes me sad, because part of the great deception is to let souls think their in control through their discipline.

Best to stay close to God and not wander into areas we were told by Him not to go

Ed Dames was attached to the military remote viewing unit for a while but I wouldn't pay any attention to anything he says about RV or any results he claims to have gained from it.

Dames constantly violates two of the critical aspects of the RV protocols. First, the viewer is always supposed to be blind to the target. Someone else selects it and gives it "coordinates." These are simply code numbers. The viewer works with only these coordinates. This is done to prevent any previous knowledge or beliefs the viewer may have about the target from contaminating the viewing session. Dames routinely selects his own targets, eg., Satan.

Secondly, most RV sessions are targeted at things where feedback can be obtained later. This is so the viewer can find out how the degree to which s/he was correct or incorrect. (It is not simply a matter of right or wrong. For example, look at any picture. There are hundreds of details you could mention in describing a picture to someone else. Is there a house? Let's say there was and you said so. You are right on that. But let's say you reported the house was white and it is really yellow. You are wrong on that. Your degree of accuracy would be expressed as a percentage.) When Dames RVs Satan we have absolutely no way to determine if a single thing he says is accurate. There is no possibility for feedback and we are left with comparing what he says to our individual beliefs. THAT is not good science, good RVing or good religion.

Finally, RV is not mystical voodoo or the work of the devil or any other such nonsense. It is simply a natural ability possessed by every human being. We are all born with this ability just as we are all born with our other senses, intellectual abilities and physical abilities. As with the intellectual and physical abilities, most of us have an average amount of RV ability, some have very little and some have a great deal. And, as

	with those other abilities, whatever RV skill each of us has must be developed by practice. Tom D. IP: Logged

What were some of your sixth sense experiences?
